

FIGHTING IN THE REGION OF PARRAL

by the granting of certain demands by the governor at the time, Gen. Luis Terrazas, father of the present governor. Representatives of the tribe and Gen. Terrazas met at what the Indians called the halfway point, which was the town of Jimenez, a short distance below here.

The Tarahumaras are a very peaceful tribe and engage principally in farming. They have had excellent crops this year, the best in nearly 18 years, and for that reason very few have come here this season to work on the surrounding farms.

All troops to Chihuahua. The two trainloads of troops that arrived in Jimenez last week, left that place Wednesday for Chihuahua to take the field in the mountains and engage the rebels if possible to combat.

According to the advices received in this city, the government will make a strong bid to wind up the fray from now on and drastic measures will be resorted to in order to accomplish this end. The insurrection has now lasted two months, a much longer period than was thought probable; the rebels in the field are said to be short of arms and ammunition while the federals are well equipped to stand the gauntlet for an indefinite length of time. According to the well informed decisive battles may be looked forward to very shortly.

FIGHTING AT EL VALLE THURSDAY

Report Comes That Two Are Known to Be Dead and Three Wounded.

Early Thursday morning a band of about 100 insurgents attacked San Buenaventura (El Valle), a small town southeast of Parral. The town was defended for two or three hours by about 40 volunteers, who fought from the adobe roofs and through holes cut in the soft walls of the buildings.

Two of the insurgents are known to have been killed, and three of the federals were wounded.

At Casas Grandes, Donciano Mapula, the newly installed jefe politico of that district, was talking on the telephone with El Valle about the fight when the wires were cut. The final result of the battle is not known, but rumors were dispatched.

This attack, coupled with an unverified report that 300 insurgents were marching on Casas Grandes, caused much excitement in the city, which was defended at that time by only a few soldiers.

Up to the time of the departure of Thursday's train no developments had occurred in new Casas Grandes, and today no news has been telegraphed to Ciudad Juarez.

The Mexico North Western train departed for the south as usual at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon with an average number of passengers.

Ernest Golder, manager of the Ketelsen & Degetau store at Casas Grandes, with his family, was a passenger for El Paso on Thursday's train, and did not return Friday. The train also brought up the families of many Mexican ranchmen.

MOCTEZUMANS FLEE OVER THE BORDER

Rebels Slip in From Arizona and Fighting Is Expected Shortly.

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 20.—Warned by the mayor of Moctezuma to remove themselves from the zone of an impending battle, Mexicans of the Moctezuma district, in the state of Sonora, are flocking across the border. Senor Durado and his son, bankers of Naco, and several other prominent Mexicans of that place, are among the non-combatants to come to Douglas. Durado brought all the money from his bank vaults to this city for safety.

According to the refugees, a large body of insurgents is being amassed southeast of Moctezuma for a march northward. The mayor of Moctezuma, though he has only 50 federal troops and a small force of civilians under his command, is prepared to offer resistance. The commissario of Agua Prieta, just across the line from here, has asked for troops to guard the town and the custom house.

A band of Mexicans, with 10 mules loaded with rifles, is reported to have crossed the line into Mexico at a point east of here last night. Where this band was organized is not known.

OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS REBELS ARE KILLED BY DYNAMITE Mexico City, Jan. 20.—Dynamite stored in a church at Bequichich in southern Chihuahua, exploded during Tuesday's battle between rebels and federal forces, bringing destruction in the ranks of the rebels and giving the federal forces a victory after four hours of hard fighting, according to war department reports, which indicate that the rebels fortified themselves in the church and surrounding buildings and made a desperate resistance when attacked by the soldiers. The dynamite was exploded by the detonations of heavy firing. The church and several houses near it were demolished. The rebels fled in confusion and were pursued by a portion of the federal cavalry. The explosion killed 13 insurgents.

MEXICAN SOCIALIST TALKS TO EL PASOANS ON WAR

L. Gutierrez de Lara, the Mexican Socialist, spoke Thursday night to more than 200 Americans and English speaking Mexicans who stood in front of the court house. It was the visitor's first address here in English. De Lara giving a history of the revolutions in Mexico. He burdened no one with dates or details, but told of the turmoil of the people from the proletariat's point of view.

In speaking of Santa Ana, a militant ruler, de Lara said: "He was inspired by that barbarous religion by the name of patriotism." The speaker's English was broken, but his remarks were not to be misunderstood, and his manner of expression is excellent from the standpoint of presentation.
